BIOGRAPHY

Barbara Landis, mezzo - soprano, recently covered and studied the role of Baba in The Medium with Gian Carlo Menotti at the Spoleto Festival in Italy. She has sung the title role in Carmen with the National Symphony Orchestra of the Dominican Republic, in a modern adaptation at Pegasus Playhouse of Chicago, with the American Opera Group, Highland Park Opera Studio, Illinois, and with other operatic companies in the Chicago area and San Francisco. She has received critical praise for her portrayal of Carmen. “Ms. Landis as Carmen, wasn't afraid to play the role with the seductiveness and even raunchiness it requires. She was outstanding...” (Wheaton Daily Journal, IL). “Miss Landis can weave a spell over the audience.” “...a dynamic mezzo-soprano voice.” (Naperville Sun, IL). Last year, she sang Carmen with the Golden Gate Opera in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park.

Barbara specializes in music and drama with a Spanish flair. Besides Carmen, she has portrayed the role of Aldonza in Man of LaMancha in the Midwest with Whitewater Opera, Sorg Opera, and in the Colorado Lyric Theatre Festival. Barbara has also portrayed Carmen in La Tragedie de Carmen.

Barbara has been active in the art of Zarzuela with Opera Factory of Chicago. She has performed the gypsy La Cantadora in La Verbena de la Paloma with Jarvis Conservatory Zarzuela Festival in Napa, CA. She has been a dance student of Pascual Olivera and Angela Del Moral and has danced in local theater and on NBC and WELD television.

Barbara has also studied and sung in Europe. At the Britten-Pears School in England, she was a student of Nancy Evans. There she sang the role of Lucretia in concert excerpts from Britten's The Rape of Lucretia, which was taped for broadcast by the BBC. She has studied in Italy and has received critical praise in Brescia, Italy “Barbara Landis' skill was put forth in the dramatic aria ‘Acerba voluttá’ from Adriana Lecouvreur of Cilea, (Giornale di Brescia). Barbara has performed the role of Fidalma in The Secret Marriage with Kommishe Kammer Oper Munchen in Germany and was invited back the next season.

Locally, she has received critical acclaim as a comedienne for her portrayal of Mad Margaret in Gilbert & Sullivan's Ruddigore with Light Opera Works. She has also been praised for leading roles in Hansel and Gretel, The Italian Girl in Algiers and Gilbert & Sullivan's Trial by Jury. Other roles include: Amneris in Aida, Princess Eboli in Don Carlo and Orsini in Lucretia Borgia, with da Corneto Opera Ensemble (Chicago), and Eleanor, the young understudy, in Vaudeville Fantasy, an original work by Mae Cohen. Barbara can be heard on Cedille Record's The Medium with Chicago Opera Theater and has sung live on Chicago WFMT/FM radio.

REVIEWS

"much comedic individuality...Barbara Landis' deliciously nasty Zita."

John von Rhein, Chicago Tribune
2016

"Barbara Landis brought a plummy mezzo to her covetous Zita."

Mark Thomas Ketterson, Opera News
2016

"Barbara Landis, Artistic Director of Chamber Opera Chicago, cast herself in the title role of The Medium and there could be no better choice. A strikingly, attractive young woman, with a rich mezzo-soprano, she transformed herself most effectively into an old, ugly harridan. Her hallucinatory mad scene was riveting."

Richard Covello, Chicago Tribune
June, 2005

"Barbara Landis as Mad Margaret-surely the maddest Margaret on record. Landis's mezzo voice is commanding whether she is singing, cackling or uttering unearthly screeches."

Chicago Tribune

"Barbara possesses a rich mezzo voice and her dark expressive eyes helped to propel the drama in 'Trial by Jury.'"

Chicago Tribune

"...Barbara Landis brought a coltish grace and expressive voice to the role of the young understudy."

Chicago Sun-Times

"Here it is foremost the careful hand with which Verzatt has directed husky-voiced Barbara Landis as Aldonza, making her the focal figure of the work."

Daily Camera, CO
